

IT'S A DANGEROUS GAME THEY'RE PLAYING.

Ziggy and Elka have fled Nazi Germany and are hiding with other Jewish children in an orphanage in the French village of Annemasse. Some villagers are friendly, others part of the Nazi-allied Vichy regime. The trick lies in knowing whom to trust, since a mistake could be deadly. Ziggy is not sure about the mysterious, blond-haired Georges Loinger. Is he a friend, who will lead them to safety in nearby Switzerland? Or a foe who is luring them in, only to give them up to the Nazis?

“A beautifully told, important story.
Not to be missed.”

-Anne Blankman, author of THE BLACKBIRD GIRLS, winner of the National Jewish Book Award

Born and raised in St.Louis, MO, Rosanne Tolin is the author of two published books for middle grade readers: Freedom's Game and More Than Marmalade: Michael Bond and The Story Of Paddington Bear.

An experienced, respected journalist (and mother bear to four kids), her work has focused on children's publications. She was the creator of an ALA notable website for kids, the managing editor of a children's magazine, and an award-winning features writer for a daily newspaper. She lives an hour outside of Chicago, IL with her husband. When not writing, running, reading, or brewing coffee, she can be found hiking with her dogs in the Indiana Dunes near her home in Chesterton, IN or in Colorado's Rocky Mountains.

www.rosannetolin.com

---

---

---

---